THE COUENHOVENS AND KINGFOLK.

2011656

The compiler was blessed with a mother and a grandmother with remarkable memories. They not only related innumerable family traditions, many of which have since been proven by Church and other records, but also were able to supply dates of births, marriages, deaths, &c.

Grandmother, Catherine Jane (Williams) Benson, was born in the lower part of Manhattan Island on June 22, 1820. She no doubt received much of her information from family members who had lived through the times of the Revolution. Many stories and traditions were told to her grandchildren when they visited the old home, a Dutch farmhouse in the old Bushwick section of the Borough of Brooklyn, New York City. The house was on an unpaved street a few steps from the road, now Bushwick Avenue, and was surrounded by a kitchen and flower garden that supplied the home with food and decorations.

Through her two old Bible Records were located, one (Bible D) had been kept by Christopher Demorest and his wife Gesse (Rosenzyn). The other (Bible C), printer in 1716, had passed down through James Couenhoven and his wife Elizabeth (Demorest), their daughter Sarah Maria (Couenhoven) Williams, her daughter Isabel (Williams) Brown, and in 1934 in possession of Isabel's son Sumner Blanchard Brown. In this latter Bible the first recorded birth was in 1697 and the last in 1878. Copies of these records will follow.

With these Bible Records as a basis, we were able to contact many of the living generations, and have been greatly pleased with the enthusiastic cooperation received.

Some of the traditions told the compiler by his mother, Catherine Elizabeth (Benson) Cochran, and by his grandmother have been proven. Others may be of aid in the future. Among them:-

"James Couenhoven was related to the Tarrytown, N. Y. family." We have found records that Edward Couenhoven of Tarrytown was a brother of Francis Couenhoven, the father of James.

"The families of James Couenhoven and Elizabeth Demorest were closely allied." The records show that Jane Bussey (widow of Francis Couenhoven) and mother of James, married as her second husband Christopher Demorest, father of Elizabeth, thus becoming her son's step mother-in-law and her daughter-in-law's step mother.

"James and his wife Elizabeth lived very near to Trinity Church, New York, during the first year of their married life. Their first child was born in New York City, but, due to the activities of the British Army, the family was compelled to change their residence many times during the year following the birth of the first child. Their second son was born in Bergen, N.J." Valentine's Manual states that William Cook (the first recorded birth in the 1716 Bible) was sexton of Trinity Church. The Bible shows a daughter of James and Elizabeth was given the name "Effy Cook". Jane (Bussey) Couenhoven, mother of James, had a sister Effy who was the second wife of this William Cook. A deed in the New York County Clerk's Office shows Effy's home, sold after her death, was located on the south-east corner of Wall and New Streets. However, this is the only provable record of any of the relatives residing in that immediate locality. No member of the family has been discovered residing further uptown than Spring Street previous to 1850 when some of them migrated and settled in Illinois.

Recd Aug 15-1978

The Couenhovens were originally members of the Dutch Church, but in 1759 we find in the baptismal records of Trinity Church "William, son of Francis and Jane Covenhoven, witnesses Wm. and Effy Cook." Shortly after the Revolution the family of James and Elizabeth affiliated with the Baptist Church on Mulberry Street, N.Y. City. Many of their descendants are at present Baptists. No baptismal record of James Couenhoven has as yet been found. This is possibly due to the shifting of church affiliations from the Dutch to the English Church.

In 1939 and 1940 "The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society" published in Vols. LXX and LXXI of the RECORD, the early known generation of the vanKouwenhoven-Conover Family as gathered and arranged by this compiler. The numbering of the individuals shown in the RECORD is a consecutive system rather than the one used in our researches where the descendants of each of the three sons of the original settler (Gerret, Jacob and Peter) are identified by letters "G", "J" and "P".

As this compilation is of Jacob's descendants only, each individual number is made up of the letter "J" followed by a number denoting the American born generation, and preceded by a consecutive number showing the individual's approximate position in that generation.

Due to the fact that the story down to the children of the first three American born generations has been published in the RECORD, the great amount of detail has not been repeated. The first four pages are copied from our Working Index and the numbers shown in parentheses are those as shown in the RECORD.

The record of this family group is most disappointing, not only are the maiden names of the two wives not revealed, but in addition the daughter is listed as of the first marriage. If the first wife died in 1875 and the daughter in 1877 her age as given 3 mos. must be faulty.

the first time in the history of the world that the people of the United States have been compelled to go to war in order to defend their country from the attacks of a foreign power.
The American people have always been averse to war, and have never sought it except in self-defense.
But when the United States was attacked by England, the American people were determined to defend their country and their homes, and to protect their families from the cruelties of the English.

the 1990s and 2000s. In the 1990s, the U.S. Congress passed the Telecommunications Act of 1996, which deregulated the industry and promoted competition. This led to significant changes in the way telecommunications services are provided and used. One major change was the rise of mobile phones, which became widely available and affordable. Another change was the growth of the Internet, which revolutionized the way people communicate and access information.
In the 2000s, the industry continued to evolve, with the introduction of new technologies such as Wi-Fi and 4G/5G mobile networks. The industry also faced challenges, including the need to invest in infrastructure and the impact of regulatory changes. Overall, the telecommunications industry has played a crucial role in shaping the modern world and will continue to do so in the future.

the first time in 1978. The first two years were very difficult, but we have now established a solid base. We have a good team of people who are dedicated to the project. We are working closely with the local government and other organizations to ensure that our work is sustainable and beneficial to the community.

We are currently working on several projects, including the construction of a new school building, the improvement of local roads, and the development of a local water supply system. We are also working on a program to provide training and education to local farmers, so that they can increase their productivity and income.

We are grateful for the support of our partners and donors, without whom we would not be able to carry out our work. We are committed to continuing our work in the community, and we hope to make a positive impact on the lives of the people we serve.
